> [From the London Weekly Dispatch.] Through Canada to Cariboo.

The autumn is the best time in the year for passing the Rocky Mountains. The Grand Trunk Kaillawy Company grant through tickets to emigrants from Liverpool to St. Paul's, in the State of Minnesotta, for £10 10s. 11d. The fare by rail from Quebec to St. Paul's is £3 3s, 11d., and the steerage passage from Liverpool to Quebec, including a plentiful supply of cooked provisions, is seven guineas. The luggage of the through passengers is moved from the ship to the railway station free of charge. A company was formed in London in the spring which undertook to forward emigrants to British Columbia, by way of Canada, for 40 guineas. It was to make arrangements beforchand along the route so as to insure speed and comfort to the travelers; but by accounts from St. Paul's just received the arrangements have broken down. Some of the parties from London were, we believe, in possession of ample pecuniary resources. We take the following from the St. Paul's Press:—"In our news summary on Tucsday morning the following item appeared:—"A party of 30 Englishmen recently arrived at Quebec under the auspices of a company in London, which advertises to carry them across the continent in comfortable carriages for the moderate sum of 40 guineas per lead." It appears that the party of English gentlemen who have for some days been in St. Paul's and whose destination was the gold fields of British Columbia, are the party alluded to in the above time. Messrs. Il.S Ilime and Janaes Hayward were the agents of the British Columbia Overland Transportation Company—the former from Torento, Canada, and the latter from London, where the company was organized under the auspices of men of wealth and character. There is a misunderstanding or mismanagement somewhere. Mr. Himmore the overland transportation of the company was organized under the auspices of men of wealth and character. There is a misunderstanding or mismanagement somewhere. Are the organization of the company which duty we believe he party or wholly succeeded in performing, supposing, formed into a party numbering about 70. We are determined to go 'through,' calculating to go faster than if we all went separately, and by which we shall get besides more game on the way. We have hired for £20 sterling, we believe, a competent guide, a native of Edmonton, one of the Hud, son's Bay Company's posts on our route. He is a French and Iroquois half-breed, most of the first settlers having intermarried with Indians. To get along in this part one needs to know a little French. The governor of the Hudson Bay Com-Company was at St Paul's when we arrived there, and left a day or two before us, but had to lie by at a place on the road, so that we took him on with us. He it was who supplied us with the flour and pemican, and has been doing everything he can to assist us through, giving us letters to the officers at all the Company's posts on the way. We have found the settlers all along a plearant, hospitable set of people. Here they are divided into two settlements, Scotch and French, but the Scotch is by far the larger settlement."

The Wedding Day.

The Wedding Day.

A gentleman who had courted a most agreeable young woman, and won her heart, obtained also the consent of her father. The old man had a fancy that they should be married in the same church where he himself was, in a village in West moreland, and made them set out while he was lad up with the gout in London. The bridegroom took only his man—the bride her maid; they had the most agreeable journey imaginable to the place of marriage, from whence the bridegroom wrate the following letter to his wife's father:

"SII:—After a very pleasant journey hither, we are preparing for the happy hour in which I am to be your son. I assure you the bride earries it, in the eye of the viear who married you, much beyond her mother; though he says, your open sleeves, pantaloons, and shoulder-knot made a much better show than the fanciful dress I am in. However, I am contented to be the second tine man this village ever saw, and shall make it very merry before night, because I shall write myself from thence your most dutiful son.

"The bride gives her duty, and is as handsome as an angel. I am the happies than breathing."

The villagers were assembling about the church, and the happy couple took a walk in a private garden. The bridegroom's man knew his master voould leave the place on a sudden after the wedding, and seeing him draw his pistols the night before, took this opportunity to go into his chamber and charge them. Upon their return from the garden they went into that room; and after a little fond raillery on the subject of their courtship, the

He answered "Yes."
Upon which, he shot him dead with that re-sining. After this, amidst a thousand broken bls, plercing groans, and distracted motions, he rote the following letter to the father of his dead ride.

"Sin:—I, who two hours ago told you truly I was the happiest man alve, on now the most miserable. Your daughter lies dead at my feet, killed by my hand through a mistake of my man's charging my pistols unknown to me. Him have I mundered for it. Such is my wedding day. I will immediately follow my wife to her grave, but before I throw myself upon my sword, I command my distraction so far as to explain my story to you. I fear my heart will not keep together until have stabbed it. Poor, good old man! Remember he who killed your daughter died for it. In the article of death, I give you my thanks, and pray for you, though I dare not for myself. If it be possible, do not curse me." Sin:-I, who two hours ago told you truly I Inquisitorial Taxes, All taxes are inquisitorial in their character if imposed with any regard to fairness and justice. But there is a marked difference in the degree of inquisitorial power exercised by Government in raising revenue: under a tariff there is an ad valorem duty, or a duty on weight and measurement. So far then as the value, the weight, or the measurement, is concerned, the customs' officials make inquisition, but no further. A man may buy or sell a million of dollars' worth of merchandise, yet not disclose to his government a tithe of the amount of business that he does. What he imports or what he exthat nedoes. What he imports or what he experies is all the merchant discloses. Whether he does as much, or more, or less business than his neighbor no one knows. So where revenue is raised by tariff, the inquisitorial power of the government is very greatly curtailed, and as a matter of course the curiosity of inquisitorial neighbors cannot be satisfied of inquisitorial neighbors cannot be satisfied by reference to governmental records. The addition of specific licenses, in contradis-tinction to a sliding-scale license as in our trades' license, does not add to the inquisi-torial power of government only so as to dis-cover the nature of the business in which the licensee engages. How much business the licensee transacts, neither the tariff nor the specific license discloses. There is con-sequently among business people a less dis-inclination to tariff and licenses on the ground of hiding what business they do or what income they receive, than there is to ground of hiding what business they do or what income they receive, than there is to direct taxes and licenses. Direct taxes falling equally on real and personal property are much more inquisitorial than a tariff; as the tax roll discloses all the property owned by the individual taxed within the town, county, province or state in which he is taxed. But as he is only taxed once a year; and as the names of delinquents are the only names published, there is not much notoriety given to the amount of property owned by each tax-payer. Custom and the prevailing notion that direct tuxes are fairest and are levied cheapest, makes tax-payers content to disclose annually what they are worth. The specific license added tax-payers content to disclose annually what they are worth. The specific license added does not increase the inquisitorial power in any appreciable degree; it rather, if anything gives notoriety to the particular business in which the licensee is engaged. If, however, as in our system of taxation, we first exact the market value of all realty owned by each individual; and then a quarterly return of all receipts in any trade or calling, other than the liquor business, farming, the law, or banking, &o., there is an inquisitorial power exercised by governan inquisitorial power exercised by govern-ment that is felt to be far greater than under the other systems of revenue to which we have alluded; and is, consequently, felt to be objectionable and obnoxious. Quarterly returns are so much like private affairs, give such a hold to envious, or gossiping neighbors to meddle in the affairs of others, neighbors to meddle in the affairs of others, that traders, artizans, and merchants dislike them. If the object were to protect the public against swindles, 'the periodical publication of returns or the enrollment of quarterly returns of the receipts of trades and occupations in the public archives, might be submitted to. If a trader, artizan, or merchant were like a chartered bank issuing paper—if they were loaned a portion of the public credit—we might the more readily comprehend the necessity for publishing returns of business quarterly. The general public holding the paper of a bank are thus notified as to the assets, liabilities, &c., of the institution; and any false statement notified as to the assets, liabilities, &c., of the institution; and any false statement would be a fraud, producing a loss of charter at least. But our traders, artizans, and merchants do not borrow public creditin any way. Notither dees the return of their quarterly receipts disclose whether they are solvent or insolvent. It simply states an approximate amount of business done in three months. It gives a partial view of a man's affairs; leaves to guess-so and oft-times to unfair surmises to fix what So-and-So is worth, and what Someone-else is not worth. So far then as the to he what So-and-So is worth, and what Someoles is not worth. So far then as the public is concerned, the partial disclosure in the trades' license returns do an actual and positive injury; presents men as often unfairly as fairly to the public, because only a partial exhibit is made, and not a full and fair exhibit of their assets and liabilities. The trades' license is therefore inquisitivity in The trades' license is therefore inquisitorial in a way that does no good; neither protecting the public against over-trading nor insorve, cy.

The scale on which it is levied is subject also to objection. There is not that equality of There is not that equality of taxes levied under it that there ought to be. It does not nor will not promote to any appreciable extent the policy of making this port the great northern entrepot of merchandize. Before long it will be visible enough that nothing can be gained by the trades' that nothing can be gained by the trades' license in the way of fostering trade. The taxes levied in the shape of licenses for general or civic purposes, will soon equal and surpass our ad valorem tax on personal property; and withat the inquisitorial power will still exist—still be objectionable—still work more injury than good. Notwithstanding the tendency of events, we find our City Council disposed to adopt the inquisitorial system of taxes now in existence. The inference is that not enough about private business is known; not sufficient to excite the envious or the gossipping interabout private business is known; not sufficient to excite the envious or the gossipping intermeddler; but that we require a little more inquisitorial power. The City Fathers, like the Assembly, like to peep into private affairs; not with a square look but with a squaint. It is true the Charter interdicts a tax on personal property; but in that we fail to discover the necessity for a new issue of inquisitorial licenses without a corresponding good.

ment of music at a certain well-known Chicago establishment, on entering her carriage recollected a piece which she had neglected to buy. "Sir," said she, on recentering the shop, "there is one thing which I have forgotten, and which I wish to have." "And what is that?" inquired the clerk. "It is 'One Kind Kiss Before We Part." The gallant young music seller immediately vaulted over the counter, and printed on the lips of the fair stranger, in somewhat of an andants style, what he took to be the tenor of her request. It is searcely necessary to inform our readers, who will recollect the song of "One Kind Kiss Before We Part," that it was an air of a less touching nature than the one given by our hero, which the young lady expected to receive.

TOWN COUNCIL.

MONDAY EVENING, Oct. 13, 1862. Council met at 7:15 o'clock; present, His Worship the Mayor and a full Board.

COMMUNICATIONS. Communications from the Colonial Secretary's Office enclosing a copy of indenture conveying to the Hudson Bay Company such portions of the Victoria Town Site as had been sold by that body, and also securing the Corporation in the possession of Copland Farm, North Dairy Farm, the old Springs and adjoining land, except one well, and lastly the Town Site and the water-front, exlastly the Town Site and the water-front, except a certain portion of the water-front set apart for the harbor-master; and reserving for governmental uses the Police Barracks, and the site of Post Office buildings.

Communication from the Colonial Secretary enclosing reply of Attorney General to the grievances of the Town Council regarding the powers of that body which real as ing the powers of that body, which read as follows:

Sin:—I have the honor to report for the information of His Excellency the Governor that I have perused the queries submitted by the Municipal Council for the opinion of the law officer of the Crown, and have to report as follows:

Ist Query.—I entertain no doubt whatever as to this query. By the 24th section of the Act the Council are empowered by by-law to direct in what manner the funds required for municipal purposes shall be taised.

By a previous clause in the Act, "The by-laws unless disallowed," and when published have, "within 7 days from the date of publication the force of law, unless otherwise postponed by such by-laws."

Suppose the Council pass by-laws imposing special licences such as a trade licence, or liquor license, and such by-law is not disallowed, has it not the force of law just as much as any act of the Parliament, passed by Commons and Lords, and assented to by the Crown? The answer to this involves no question on constitutional merits. Such questions are utterly exhausted by the assent to the Act, unless the Crown should afterwards disallow it.

to the Act, unless the Crown should afterwards disallow it.

Were it at all necessary, a hundred instances of authorization equally large might be shown in the statute books of England or Canada. There is no power in this Colony which dare interfere with the action of the Council in the exercise of any of the powers conferred upon it by a by-law duly passed and not disallowed. The Council may, therefore, safely pass such by-laws not prohibited by the Act as in their discretion they may think proper, and I would merely suggest that great pains should be observed in framing such clarises of the by-laws as affect the mode of collecting taxes in default. Such by-laws when passed and not disallowed, are to be administered from the tribunals of justice without question. Any other doctrine would vest in the judicial functionaries a power of overruing the assent of the Crown, which is absurd. 2d Query.—The 22d section of the Act provides that the Council, sace as hereingfer mentioned, shall have no power to incur any personal liability or any liability beyond the municipal revenue for the current year, provided always that the Council may by resolution passed as aforesaid, if confirmed by the electoral vote hereinafter mentioned, bind one-third or any less part of the municipal revenue for the space of three years from the date of may by resolution passed as aforesaid, if confirmed by the cleetoral vote hereinafter mentioned, bind one-third or any less part of the municipal revenue for the space of three years from the date of the final passage of a resolution in that behalf.

The 23d section provides that every resolution anticipating any portion of the municipal revenue shall receive the confirmation of the municipal revenue shall receive the confirmation of the numicipal electors; and that in case any proposed resolution shall be negatived by the votes of the electors, no such resolution, etc., shall be brought forward or considered during the municipal year.

By the joint effect of the cited chauses the power of borrowing is given (subject to limitation) in the amplest terms, and as there is no limitation on the form of instrument, a bond or debenture ma given form may be declared, by the resolution to be the security to be adopted. Care should be taken, however, to prescribe the exact form of the security and its characteristics, e. y. its negotiability, etc., in the resolution.

With regard to the query as to whether the security would be first class, I am at a considerable loss for a reply.

Had the Municipal Council possessed a security

curity would be first class, I am at a considerable loss for a reply.

Had the Municipal Council possessed a security

Had the Municipal Council possessed a security of the most undoubted character in all respects, the mode in which they have introduced it to the public attention would be sufficient to send it down to a considerable discount. Men sufficiently intelligent to thoroughly understand its perfect validity would still recognize the fact that the majority of investers will not look a second time at a security upon whose goodness a slur has been east, no matter upon what insufficient grounds such slur may have been founded, and such men will, of course, give less for the security which is least easily convertible. I should say, so far as I can be an authority on the subject, that such security will not be of a first class character, and that the mode in which the subject has been treated by the Council must necessarily have depreciated the value of any securities they may offer. Under these circumstances, I should therefore recommend the passage of an Act through the Legislature confirming such bonds or debentures when issued.

36 Ouery.—Real estate, including the land and ture confirming such bonds or debentures when issued.

3d Query.—Real estate, including the land and everything affixed to it in the shape of buildings, etc., as before stated, they may impose licenses or adopt any other course of taxation not prohibited by the Act, including a poll or income tax, on the residents within the municipality.

4th Query.—The form to be adopted should, in my opinion, be that of a debenture, with a coupon attached. The form, as before observed, should be fixed by the resolution.

5th Query.—I should strongly advise the Municipal Council to pass the various by-laws without the least delay, and carry them into immediate execution without the faintest scruple. In conclusion, I would add that each by-law with regard to taxation should distinctly declare the penalties for default of payment, and equally distinctly point out the tribunal to enforce those penalties.

Mr. Copland entered the following protest which was handed to the Clerk:

I, John Copland, of the City of Victoria, in the Colony of Vancouver Island, Councillor, do protest as follows:

First. That the Mayor and Council of the City of Victoria have no power to assess and levy rates in the said city by virtue of the present Act of Incorporation, and the assessment or levying of such rates by the Mayor and Council aforesaid is therefore illegal.

Second. That the levying of such rates or assessments will lead the Corporation into litigation, and various costs, damages, and expenses, attendant thereupon.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Council commenced a lengthy squab-ble over the conduct of the Councillors who ble over the conduct of the Councillors who had bolted from the room when the Committee of Ways and Means was announced. His Worship refused to allow Councillor Copland's protest to go upon the minutes, and after a long and profitless debate, it was decided to "place on the minutes the names of the Councillors present at the time of going into committee."

Mr. Stronach moved that the City Surveyor proceed to fix the grades of certain streets. This motion gave rise to another long discussion and numerous amendments, which were only put an end to by the Council adjourning until Monday next, at 7 p. m.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

MONDAY, OCT. 13, 1862.

MONDAY, OCT. 13, 1862.

House met at 3:15 o'clock. Present—Speaker Helmeken, and Messrs. Cary, King, Southgate, Cocker, Franklin, Trimble.

House went into committee on the bill to amend the Real Estate Act, 1869. Mr. Franklin in the chair, when the last clause of the bill was taken up, viz: "The term 'agricultural improvements' shall include all improvements in or upon the land, all fences, gates. barns, stables, stiles, out-houses, and laborer's dwelling-houses."

Considerable discussion arose on this clause, Mr. Cary working hard to have the words 'all improvements in or upon the land," stricken out; but his proposition met with no favor from any member except Mr. Southgate, the remainder expressing themselves as opposed to assessing crops or plowed lands, which would clearly be done were the words stricken out. It was finally decided to allow the words to remain.

The bill then passed the committee, who rose and reported progress, and the House adjourned until Tuesday at 3 o'clock, p. m.

Temperance Lecture.—The Wesleyan Meth.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE. The Weslevan Meth dist Church was crowded last evening by persons anxious to hear Hon, Malcolm Cameron lecture anxious to hear Hon. Malcolm Cameron lecture on the subject of Temperance. Rev. A. C. Garrett occupied the Chair. The lecturer made a feeling appeal to members of every religious denomination to combine on behalf of tectotalism. Remarks were made by Revs. Browning and Lucas, and at the conclusion of the exercises ninety-two persons came forward and signed the pledge. An election for officers was then held, with the following fesult:—Jeffries, President; John Jessop, Secretary and Treasurer. Committee, Messrs. Newton, Forsyth, Kirk, Gibbs (colored), and Dr. Chipp.

INCORRECT.-The report that ten Englishmen lost their lives in Stickeen River, on the 3d Sept., by the upsetting of a canoe, proves incorrect. Parties who left the river on the IIth Sept. state that the canoe was not even capsized, and that when last seen the occupants were pursuing their way up the river with an expressed determination to give the nines a fair trial before condemning them. We are glad to note the incorrectness of the painful report.

Suspicious Character .- Boone Helm, repre sented as a bad character, was taken into custody on Sunday night last, upon a charge of drinking on Sunday night last, upon a charge of drinking at saloons and leaving without settling his score, and for taking some apples from a stand. Sept. Blake, who made the arrest, said that he understood the accused had killed a man at Salmon River, and fled to British Columbia. Helen was remanded for three days in order to see what account he can then give of himself.

RATHER CHEEK-Y .- A young gentleman lately arrived in this Colony sends us a written copy of the ballad "Good News from Home," and asks us to publish it as an omanation from his own brain. The ballad is a beautiful one, but, as it happons to have been stolen from another poet, we must decline its publication, the more especially as we heard it sung seven years ago in San Francisco.

by Lieut. Painer, Deputy Commissioner of Lands and Works. The Grand Jury at Williams Creek recommended that the place should be called Elwyntown, after the Gold Commissioner of the District; but Lieut. Palmer seems to have thought Richfield more eur fronious and appropriate.

THEY NEED THEM .- Prayers were offered up on Sunday at one of the churches in behalf of the Mayor and Town Council, If the proceedings of the Council on Friday evening last are to be taken as an evidence of what is to come, not only the Mayor and Councillors, but the tax-ridden citizons will soon need praying for.

Police Count.—The dock was filled to overflowing yesterday with persons charged with minor offences, such as drunkenness, rowdyism, and fighting. They were severally disposed of in a summary manner without a single item of interest transpiring.

Card.—In presenting my name to the citizens of Victoria for a benefit, I wish to remind them that for the past two or three years I have used my best exertions to establish for them a good theatre. The little cash capital I possessed was cheerfully expended for that purpose, and not being sufficient, I was obliged to trespass on the patience of my friends for a few pecuniary obligations—not much, but sufficient to be troublesome. My patient endurance, under most discouraging circumstances, has not yet enabled me to pay them all; but one good house for my benefit will enable me to square up honorably and not oblige me to "throw myself upon the kind indulgence of my friends." I have enabled the citizens to bestow many good benefits upon worthy and benevolent objects, and I hope that on this occasion they will not be backward in coming forward for my benefit.

More persons die saddenly from diseases of the heart than the unlearned suppose; in such complaints, the bowels should always be kept well open, as also where there is a tendency of blood to the head. These celebrated Pills purify the blood in an extraordinary manner, and should be taken in copious doses when such symptoms occur, taking care not to overload the stomach; by this means all danger is quickly averted.

Children's Complaints.

Children's Complaints.

It is not generally known, but such is the fact, that children require medicine oftener than their parents, Three-lourths of the children die before they attain the age of eight years. Let mothers, then, be wise, and give to their children small doses of these invitable Pilis once or twice every week, in such quantity as may act gently upon the system twice in the wenty-lour nours. For infants, a Pill may be crus'ed and given as a powder in a little water. The gross humors that are constantly floating about in the blood of children, the forerunners of so many complaints, will thus be expelled, and the lives of thou sands saved and preserved to their parents.

SARNSEVALN'S WINE BITTERS; OR California Vermouth.—These Bitters are obtain ing a wide-spread celebrity in all parts of the State.
It is sufficient evidence of their great merit to observe the large quantities shipped by our principal Wine
Morchants to every part of the country
Sainsevain, however, like all other manufacturers of new and valuable articles, hus to contend with unscrupulous parties, who are introducing a sputious mixture purporting to be his Wine Bitters, which noxious compounds are put up in the same style of bottles, labels, etc., so as to pass for the Sainsevain brand. We call attention to this fact so that our citizeus may be upon their guard, and that when they ask for Sainsevain's Bitters, see that they get them. As pure Wine is destined to drive from use all alcoholic decections, so these Bitters will soon take the place of the "dullerated preparations which now flood our market. Those desiring a pure and agreeable tonic should try Sainsevain's Wine Bitters or California Vermouth.
We have appointed W. H. OLIVER, of Victoria,
V. I., to be our Sole Agent for the British Possessions.
